

PCE Europe

European Network for Person-Centred and Experiential Psychotherapy and Counselling

Encounter Group of PCE Europe

"In such a group the individual comes to know himself and each of the others more completely than is possible in the usual social or working relationships." (Carl R. Rogers, 1969)

Background

Opening up to individual members is the first step of PCE Europe to live up to our name "European Network ..." not only at the level of organisations but also at the level of living persons. And of course a core part of our approaches is to encounter each other. Consequently PCE Europe wants to create a framework that facilitates contact and exchange between our international colleagues – the "Encounter Group of PCE Europe".

What is it?

An opportunity for our community to meet. We think of this space as a frame where we can meet as a group and then know each other individually at a deeper level and in a more personal way.

Why?

We are aware that our community grows and an encounter group where we can come together and share ourselves, where we can listen, collaborate and create a community is something we want to keep an eye on.

Structure

We are thinking of monthly or quarterly online encounters over two hours via Zoom. If the opportunity arises, e.g. during a symposium, face-to-face encounters may also be possible. Let's start and find our way together....
